The Palestinian Museum is an independent institution dedicated to supporting an open and dynamic Palestinian culture nationally and internationally. The Museum presents and engages with new perspectives on Palestinian history, society and culture. It also offers spaces for creative ventures, educational programmes and innovative research. The Museum is one of the most important cultural projects in Palestine and is a flagship project of Taawon (Welfare Association).

Taawon (Welfare Association) is an independent non-profit organisation, committed to providing development and humanitarian assistance to Palestinians in Palestine and elsewhere.

The Palestinian Museum is located in Birzeit, adjacent to the Birzeit University campus, 7 kilometres north of Ramallah and 25 kilometres north of occupied Jerusalem.

Museum without Borders

The Palestinian Museum was designed as a transnational institution, capable of overcoming geographical and political boundaries to reach Palestinians within Palestine and beyond through its digital collections and online platforms, alongside its network of local and international partnerships.

The Building

The Palestinian Museum building was designed by the Dublin-based architecture company Heneghan Peng. Standing on a 40,000 square metre plot of land in Birzeit, the building’s structure merges with the cascading terraces unique to Palestinian hills, and is surrounded by gardens which tell the agricultural and vegetational history of Palestine. The Palestinian Museum is LEED certified Gold from the U.S. Green Building Council.

From Dream to Reality

The Palestinian Museum is a dream come true, built by Palestinian hands on the land of Palestine, a cultural beacon which connects Palestinians wherever they happen to be, inside and outside their homeland.
